

FINAL ARGUMENT IN STEPHENSON MATTER

ENTIRE SENATE COMMITTEE TO ACT ON CASE OF WISCONSIN SENATOR.

DISSENTING OPINIONS

Are Expected From Three Senators. Although Sub-Committee Exonerated Him.—Washington News.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Feb. 2.—Final argument on charges of bribery and corruption made in connection with the election of Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin, will be made tomorrow before the senate committee on privileges and elections.

Charles E. Littlefield, former representative in congress from Maine, will represent the Senator.

A report of the sub-committee which investigated the charges completely exonerated Senator Stephenson. The full committee, however, has not unanimously accepted that report and it is said three senators will be dissenting opinions.

Steel Investigation. John A. Fitch, of Pittsburgh, who has made investigation into conditions surrounding steel workers at Pittsburgh and Birmingham, was a witness today before the Stanley investigating committee. Mr. Fitch's testimony was similar to that given by Louis D. Brandeis, of Boston.

"The steel corporation would seek an enormous power that it is a menace to the country," said Mr. Fitch at the conclusion of his statement.

Committee Treatment. Democratic Leader Underwood announced today that he would present to a caucus next Wednesday a resolution to send the proposed investigation of the "money trust," the shipping combine and other interests to separate regular standing committees of the house. He said he was confident his plan would be approved.

Ask Senate Commission. Representatives of coal operators in Indiana, Illinois and Pennsylvania today urged the interstate commerce commission to create an interstate trade commission with such control over coal mining as the interstate commerce commission has over railroads.

Steel Bill. The senate finance committee today agreed to begin hearing on the democratic steel bill on Tuesday at ten o'clock. The agreement was unanimous. Democratic senators offered no objection to the bill of the republican leaders.

Pension Bill. The pension appropriation bill, carrying about 152 million dollars, was passed today by the house by a vote of 245 to 33. A provision excluding pensioners who live out of the United States was defeated by a vote of 160 to 133. The bill abolishes seventeen pension agencies which have been maintained in different cities.

Savannah Bill. The Bradley bill appropriating $250,000 for a celebration at Savannah, Ga., in 1913, of the semi-centennial of President Lincoln's emancipation proclamation, will be reported favorably by the senate committee on industrial exhibitions.

Talks to Bohemia. Count Francis von Luetzow of Bohemia, chamberlain to Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, addressed the house of representatives on universal peace during the fifteen minutes' recess asked by Democratic Leader Underwood. Victor Berger, protested, without avail, against a foreign nobleman addressing the house, and remarked that no such distinction would ever be accorded a foreign socialist.

EXPLAINS PACKERS' METHODS TO JURY

John C. Wheeler Tells Jury How Prices Were Fixed From Reports of Branch Houses.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Feb. 2.—Details of the methods of distribution in the dressed beef business was explained to the jury in the packers' trial today by John C. Wheeler, superintendent of branch houses for the National Packing company. Monthly reports he said were made by each branch house manager showing the number of pounds of dressed beef handled, together with the margin and average selling price. From these figures a trial balance was prepared each month showing the net profit at each house. Wheeler said branch house managers were paid a fixed salary and that each house was allowed 50 cents a hundred on all dressed beef sold for expenses. This commission is expected to cover every item of expense included in the operation of the house he said.

FIND $1,500 ON CLOTHES OF PATIENT WHO WAS ON WAY TO COUNTY HOSPITAL.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Feb. 2.—In response to a telephone message the police ambulance called at a lodging house on Van Buren street, early today and started with Thomas Connolly, seventy-three years old to the county hospital. He died on the way and the body was taken to the county morgue, where the sum of $1,500 was found sewed in the inner side of his underwear. The police were told at the lodging house that he was without funds.

INSTRUCT CONSUL TO ASSUME CHARGE OF ADMINISTRATION

Owing to Lack of Authority on Isle of Ku Sung Foreigners Ordered to Assume Power.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Amoy, China, Feb. 2.—The members of the diplomatic corps of Peking have instructed the foreign consul stationed in this place owing to the non existence of any recognized power in Fu Kien to assume for the present the function of the provincial authorities as far as regards the administration of the international on the Isle of Ku Sung which was handed over by the Chinese Government to the foreign residents in May 1901. The consular authorities have taken immediate steps to carry out the instruction of the foreign minister in Peking and have appointed a magistrate and officials to try cases which are pending before the courts of justice.

MISSOURI WIRELESS HEARD AT HONOLULU

Station in China Catches Message From Kansas City Which is First From Over Mountains.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Honolulu, Feb. 2.—Wireless messages interchanged between Kansas City and San Francisco, have been intercepted here according to the report of the operator at the new wireless station. The interception of messages from inland points on the mainland established on a new record for the Honolulu station due probably to the location of the new station to a much higher altitude, while messages from the Japanese coast and various points along the Pacific coast have been picked up here. This is the first time that overland messages from beyond the Sierra Nevada have been distinguished.

AN EXTRA SESSION TO COMPLETE WORK

Philippine Legislative Assembly Adjourn But Will Have Special Meeting to Settle Business.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Manila, Feb. 2.—After a stormy all night session the legislative assembly took final adjournment at six o'clock this morning. This constituted the second session of the second legislature. Because of squabbles over different questions only about seventy bills have been passed upon by the assembly and many important measures are still outstanding.

Governor General Forbes immediately called an extra five days session to settle outstanding measures. A repetition of last year's deadlock on appropriation bills seems probable.

FAVORABLE COMMENT ON NATION'S ACTION

Italian Paper Publishes Taft's Message of Neutrality and Calls it Worthy a Great Nation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Rome, Feb. 2.—The proclamation of neutrality of the United States in the war between Turkey and Italy signed by President Taft on Oct. 24th is produced in entirety today in the "Tribuna." The newspaper in commenting on the proclamation compares the attitude of the United States with that of the other countries. It says "President Taft's message is worthy of the great nation which from its own force freely interprets its international duty which is accepted not only in theory but also in practice."

ANOTHER BIG COTTON FIRM WAS FORCED TO THE WALL

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New Orleans, La., Feb. 2.—Immediately after the announcement from the floor of the New Orleans cotton exchange at noon today, that Charles D. Finley, member of the cotton brokerage firm of Finley & Simpson had committed suicide, news of the failure of the firm was given out.

This is the second failure in two days among the membership of the local exchange both of which are generally attributed to the sensational rise of futures.

MILWAUKEE LOAN AGENT SENTENCED FOR USURY

Lawrence Murphy Receives Sentence of 90 Days for Violation of Usury Law.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, Feb. 2.—The supreme court today ended Lawrence Murphy's hope for liberty when it quashed the alternative writ of habeas corpus and dismissed the proceedings without costs. Murphy a loan agent was convicted of violating the usury law in Milwaukee. He must now serve his sentence of 90 days.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Feb. 2.—An engagement of two million dollars in gold bars was made at the assay office this morning for shipment to Europe. This is the second exportation of gold for Europe in nearly two years.

PRISON GATES OPEN FOR GEORGE J. KERR

One of Four Men Convicted Eleven Years Ago of Murdering Mill Girl Will Regain His Liberty.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Trenton, N. J., Feb. 2.—Within the next ten days the big gates of the state prison here will be opened for the exit of George J. Kerr, one of the four prisoners convicted about eleven years ago in connection with the death of Jennie Benschneider, the mill girl, whose late attracted country-wide attention. With the commutation allowed for good behavior, Kerr will complete his fifteen-year term on which date he will be set at liberty. He will be the first of four men concerned in the murder to regain his freedom.

The young man convicted with Kerr were William A. Death, Walter McAllister and Andrew J. Campbell. On Oct. 18, 1900, the four were found guilty of murder in the second degree for the killing of the Benschneider girl by the administration of chloral and subsequent assault. The crime was described at the time as one of the most revolting ever committed in New Jersey. The four young men who were out for a good time and consistently under the influence of liquor picked up the young mill worker as they were riding about the outskirts of the city at night. The next morning the girl was found by the roadside and died from the shock of her maltreatment.

All four of the young men belonged to respectable families in Paterson and strenuous efforts were made to save them from severe punishment. The efforts, however, proved futile. McAllister, Campbell and Death were each sentenced to thirty years imprisonment at hard labor. Kerr, who was tried first and separately, was given only half of the term imposed upon his three associates.

During the years of their incarceration many fruitless efforts have been made to obtain the release of the four men. The Court of Pardons, although devoting much time to investigating the circumstances of the tragedy, has never looked with favor upon the petitions presented in behalf of the prisoners.

It is understood that as soon as Kerr is released the applications of his associates for pardon will be renewed and will be fortified with the argument that notwithstanding his lighter sentence, Kerr was no less guilty of the assault and murder of the Benschneider girl than were the three others who were with him on the night she met her death.

WILL ENDORSE TAFT IN INDIANA TODAY

Republican Committeemen Meet To Elect New Chairman To Succeed Edwin M. Lee.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 2.—The newly elected republican district chairman of Indiana met here today to elect a state chairman to succeed E. M. Lee who created a sensation by giving out a statement at the Republican National committee meeting in Washington that President Taft could not carry Indiana if re-nominated. There are now no avowed candidates for the chairmanship, but it is probable that Fred A. Sims, former secretary of state will be the choice. The committee is expected to adopt a resolution endorsing President Taft for re-nomination and the majority of the different conventions approved his administration.

FOUND IN STRANGE HOME AT MIDNIGHT BUT CAN'T EXPLAIN ANY REASON.

Danbury, Conn., Feb. 2.—A party of prominent woman suffrage advocates who are making a "trolley campaign" of Connecticut reached here today to begin a series of meetings. The "trolley campaign" is regarded as one of the most unique and successful suffrage causes before the people. The tour began a week ago at Bridgeport and will be continued until virtually every city and town of importance in the Nutmeg State has been visited. The touring party includes a number of the most noted suffragists of England as well as America.

ROOSEVELT DENIES WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE IS A VITAL ISSUE

Writes in Outlook Stating That Women Should Vote If They Wish But Matter is Really Unimportant.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Feb. 2.—Theodore Roosevelt discusses "Women's Rights, and the Duties of Both Men and Women," in an editorial in the current issue of the Outlook. He says in part:

"Much, indeed, has America owed to the fact that her two greatest men, Washington and Lincoln, though they did not neglect rights, were even more concerned with duties. I believe in women's rights, I believe even more earnestly in the performance of duty by both men and women; for unless the average man and the average woman live lives of duty, not only our democracy, but civilization itself, will perish. I heartily believe in equality of rights as between men and women, but also in full and emphatic recognition of the fact that normally there cannot be identity of function. Indeed, there must normally be complete disjunction of function between them, and the effort to ignore this patent fact is silly. I believe in woman's suffrage wherever the women want it.

Let Women Decide. "Where they do not want it, the suffrage should not be forced upon them. I think that it would be well to let the women themselves, and only the women, vote at some special election as to whether they do or do not wish the vote as a permanent possession. In other words, this is particularly a case for the referendum in those most directly affected—in the women themselves. I should be entirely content to abide by the decision, either way; for, though I do not think that the damage prophesied from woman's voting would come, or how come where it has been tried, I also think that very much less effect would be produced, one way or the other, than the enthusiasts believe. In other words, I do not regard the movement as anything like as important as either its extreme friends or extreme opponents think. It is so much less important than many other reforms that I have never been able to take a very heated interest in it.

Undesirable Apostasy. "If the woman suffrage movement were to be judged only by those advocates of it who discredit themselves and their sex by disorderly antics in public, and who assail the foundations of private and public morality in their endeavor, and 'go' raised the issue of moral duty in man, but to lower the sense of moral duty in woman, I should certainly oppose the movement. But I do not believe these undesirable apostasy are in any way to be accepted as exponents of the cause, and I call attention to the fact that they are prominent, not in the region where woman suffrage does exist, but in regions where it does not exist.

"I join my faith to woman suffragists of the type of the late Julia Ward Howe. Julia Ward Howe was one of the foremost citizens of this republic; she rendered service to the people such as few men in any generation render; and yet she did, first of all, her full duty in the intimate home relations that must ever take precedence of all other relations.

Matter Unimportant. "In our western states where the suffrage has been given to women, I am unable to see that any great difference has been caused, as compared with neighboring states in similar social and industrial conditions where women have not the suffrage. Yet what slight changes have occurred have been for the better, and not for the worse.

"I most earnestly desire to emphasize my feeling that the question of woman suffrage is unimportant compared to the great fundamental questions that go to the root of right conduct as regards both men and women. There should be equality of rights and duties, but not identity of function; and with the man, as with the woman, the prime duties as those related to the home and the family.

May Not Benefit. "The point which I wish to emphasize is that the supreme importance and high position of the woman of the type of Julia Ward Howe cannot be materially increased by the possession of the ballot. I am glad that the good, wise, and brave mother would have the ballot. I am especially glad if its possession will add to the high dignity of her position in the eyes of men. But I cannot conceive of any man's now failing to hold such a mother as more worthy of respect than any man, or any other woman.

"In the long run and taken as a whole, men and women will go up or go down together, and all reforms of first-class importance must look to ways raising both men and women to a higher level, alike as regards the things of the body and as regards the things of the soul."

SUBMARINE SINKS; BELIEVE CREW LOST

British Boat "A 3" Wrecked in Collision With "Hazard" and Crew of Eleven Thought Dead.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Portsmouth, England, Feb. 2.—The British submarine "A 3" sank this morning after a collision with the British gunboat "Hazard" off the eastern coast of the Isle of Wight. The "A 3" carried a crew of eleven men whose fate is not yet definitely known. It is believed, however, that the vessel is full of water and all are lost.

The submarine "A 3" which went out of harbor to carry out a series of diving and torpedo destroyers sank like a stone immediately after her collision with her companion gunboat the "Hazard." A big escape of gas which was observed on the surface after she sank indicates that the vessel quickly filled with water.

The vessel lies on the Princess about. The commander in chief of the Portsmouth division of the British navy confirms the wrecking of the "A 3" and the drowning of her entire crew.

Three other lieutenants were on the vessel going through a course of instructions and were drowned when the submarine sank, making a total of fourteen deaths.

Torpedo practice had been in progress for some time and the submarine "A 3" was partially submerged when she came into collision with the gunboat Hazard. The gunboat was steaming at a fairly high rate of speed and when she struck the submarine her bow cut a big rent in the little vessel's side.

The Hazard threw out life buoys and launched boats in the event any of the men should succeed in escaping but none of them came to the surface.

The drama is in three acts and covers a lapse of time of about thirty hours. In that time much happens and that fact gives action to this picture. The Kalem players have added a prologue to the written version which goes back to the time when Arra-na-Pogue, the escapee from prison of her foster brother, Beamlah McCool, by passing a message to him with a kiss, for which she was given the name "Arra-na-Pogue" or, Arrah of the Kiss. Then the events of the play follow in regular order. Beamlah McCool has returned from exile at the request of his sweetheart, Fanny Power, and is to take her back to France with him. He robs Fanny of the proceeds of the estate and gives some of the money to Arrah as a wedding present, for she is to marry Shaun the Post on the following day. Fanny happens along and sees the notes in Arrah's possession and at once believes that Shaun helped rob him. He is in love with Arrah, him self, and sees a good chance to get Shaun out of office to him down the chimney. "This and the sound of Arrah's voice, arouses Shaun to action, he breaks his bonds, tears the bars from the jail window and climbs the ivy-covered wall to the roof of the jail. Fanny, who has been seeking Arrah, is there before him and has threatened to kill Shaun if Arrah does not run away with him. He is about to drop a stone on Shaun's head when Arrah grapples with him and succeeds in holding him till Shaun arrives and throws the stone over the parapet into the lake below. Shaun is afterwards discovered by O'Grady and the soldiers, and advised of his pardon and the scene ends happily for everybody, except Fanny, who was drowned.

RECORD OF WEATHER FOR MANY WINTERS

GEORGE J. KELLOGG OF LAKE MILLS HAS TEMPERATURE FIGURES FOR FORTY YEARS.

FIGURES FOR JANUARY

Of 1912 indicate that it had the longest period of continuous low temperature since February, 1875.

Complete weather record for the past forty winters have been compiled by George J. Kellogg of Lake Mills, Wis., formerly a resident of the town of Rock. The report is taken from his diary which was kept at Lake Mills for the past thirteen years and before that time from the year 1857 at his old home in the town of Rock.

The readings have all been taken from the same thermometer which was given to Mr. Kellogg by J. F. Willard in the year 1856 or 1857. An accurate account of the weather, more especially the low temperature periods from 1874 to the present, has been compiled by Mr. Kellogg and is of interest to everyone and especially the farmer and fruit-grower.

Regarding the month of January 1912 Mr. Kellogg writes: "The past month has had the longest period of steady low temperature that we have witnessed here since February 1875. During that month the thermometer was below zero for a period of twenty days, the total number of degrees below aggregating 401. This past month there were twenty-two days that the mercury stood below the total number of degrees being 341 below according to observations kept from one reading a day.

"The worst day in all these years was New Year's Day 1884 when a forty mile gale was blowing and the thermometer stood 35 degrees below. Our boys in blue could testify to this as they suffered the hardships of war.

"The month has been fairly free from wind, and as the ground was well wet down in the fall, and a good body of snow has covered the ground, we need not fear any root killing. Although the tops of our fruit trees did not ripen up early, I do not look for much damage to fruit trees and shrubbery. If it kills back some of our fruit trees, we must top graft the more on Virginia Crab and Hibernian. Of course we cannot expect any Wisconsin peaches this year, but there is a good many peach trees that do bear often after a series of mild winters. Next spring will be the right time to plant a peach tree, and by all means plant a Duchess, a Langbein, and a Wealthy in every Wisconsin garden."

In regard to the winter weather table which Mr. Kellogg has prepared a copy of which he has sent to the Gazette, he writes the following explanation:

"Thermometers vary 10 degrees. Some government thermometers are high up on steam locks and do not or living room will give the true temperature. The coldest place is 50 feet away from any building on the north side of a tree, one foot in the north side of a tree one foot from the ground. A self registering thermometer will record the coldest any time during the night. One night in January it was the coldest at about midnight, and in the morning it had risen 18 degrees.

"The following is the number of days of the winter at zero and below, the aggregate, and the coldest day:

1874-5, 47 days—742, coldest 30. A winter with snow. 1875-6, 1875-4, 4 days—120, coldest 27. A muddy, open winter. 1876-7, 40 days—110, coldest 30. Good sleighing part of the winter. 1877-8, 54 days—24, coldest 13. An open winter, a mud blockade, 1878-9, 28 days—360, coldest 23. But little sleighing. 1879-80, 15 days—106, coldest 20. Mild, short and open winter. 1880-1, 52 days—606, coldest 37. Ice and snow blockade. 1881-2, 10 days—63, coldest 16. Just a mud winter. 1882-3, 47 days—567, coldest 30. Snow in January; rain in February. 1883-4, 33 days—371, coldest 35. Snow Dec. Jan., Feb. March. 1884-5, 52 days—469, coldest 30. Snow Dec. Jan., Feb. March. 1885-6, 28 days—273, coldest 18. Snow in February and March. 1886-7, 38 days—449, coldest 37. Snow Dec. Jan., Feb. March. 1887-8, 38 days—166, coldest 30. Snow Dec. Jan., Feb. March. 1888-9, 17 days—102, coldest 18. Snow in February and March. 1889-90, 14 days—92, coldest 20. Mud, Dec. Jan.; snow Feb. March. 1890-1, 7 days—30, coldest 11. Mud all winter; bad roads. 1891-2, 13 days—65, coldest 10. Snow, Jan. Feb. March. 1892-3, 40 days—335, coldest 20. Snow, Jan. and Feb. 1893-4, 25 days—128, coldest 18. Dec. and Jan. rain; Feb. snow. 1894-5, 35 days—227, coldest 22. Snow, Feb. March, snow. 1895-6, 17 days—106, coldest 15. Jan. Feb. March snow. 1896-7, 13 days—145, coldest 30. Jan. Feb. March snow. 1897-8, 17

Henry Funk.

Henry Funk, for twenty-five years a resident of this city, passed away at his home, 375 Western avenue, at nine o'clock last evening after an illness of less than a week with bronchial pneumonia.

Mr. Funk was born in Germany in 1845, and when a young man came to America. He located in Janesville about twenty-five years ago and has made this city his home since that time. He was a miller by trade and for many years was a valued employee of the Hodgekott Milling Company, in whose employ he was when he was taken ill on Saturday last.

Besides a large circle of friends, a wife and nine children, one daughter and eight sons, are left to mourn the loss of a loving and kind husband and father: Mrs. Abner Schindler, of this city; John P. Funk, of Fond du Lac; Adolph C. of Portsmouth, Ohio; Fred C. of Rockton, Cal.; Louis H. of Baraboo, Wis.; Charles L. St. Paul, Minn.; and Henry J. August W. and Edward A., all of this city. All of the sons with the exception of the one living in California, will be here for the funeral.

Funeral services for the departed will be held at the home, 375 Western Avenue, at two o'clock Sunday afternoon. The Rev. W. Hoffmeister, pastor of the English Lutheran church, will officiate and interment will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Lucius L. Fletcher.

Funeral services for the late Lucius L. Fletcher will be held tomorrow at half past two from the home, 612 Milwaukee Avenue. The Rev. David Beaton of the Congregational church will officiate.

Miss Bertha Piller Escapes Without Injury in Accident Wednesday Morning—Other News.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Brooklyn Feb. 2.—Miss Bertha Piller narrowly escaped what might have proved a serious injury, Wednesday morning. She was driving a team of horses hitched to the closed cab used by her father on the mail route. The team began to run as they started from the house, and she was unable to stop them. As they turned the corner by the Mercantile store, the rig tipped over. Miss Piller succeeded in getting out without injury. The horses broke loose from the rig. One of them stopped near Mr. Hanson's residence and the other was caught about a mile east of town.

MILTON WINS FROM WHITEWATER NORMAL

Basketball Contest at Milton Last Night Was Easy For College
Team Who Won 59 to 12.

(Special to this Gazette.)

Milton, Feb. 2.—The one-sided score of 59 to 12, the Milton College basketball team defeated the Whitewater Normal school five in the game here last night. Milton was able to score within thirty seconds after the game started and kept up their winning until the end. At the end of the first half the score stood 14 to 4 for Milton. Whitewater secured but four points in the second half to Milton's thirty-five.

The next game for the college will be with the Monroe team at Monroe, Feb. 3.

SENIORS AGAIN WIN GAME FROM THE INTERMEDIATES.

Senior Y. M. C. A. Team Retains Championship Honors In Game
Last Night by Score of 28 to 20.

Intermediates failed again last evening to win the Y. M. C. A. championship from the Seniors who are the present holders by a score of 38 to 20. About two weeks ago they endeavored to beat the Seniors but somehow the tables were turned on them and by the end of the second half they were on the smallest end of the score being beaten by the score of twenty-two to ten. However last evening the intermediates showed a great improvement over their last game both in floor work and in scoring ability. At the end of the first half they were a little in the lead but the Seniors came back at them so strong that at the end of the game the score registered thirty-eight to twenty. The lineup was as follows:

May Tackle Frankie Burns.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 2.—What promises to be the best bout soon in this vicinity in a long time will be staged tomorrow afternoon, when Johnny Coulon will defend his title to the bantamweight championship in a twenty-round contest with Frankie Conley. The champion has retained his title since his recent arrival here from Chicago and expresses confidence in his ability to dispose of Conley. If he is successful he will proceed from this city direct to New Orleans to tackle Frankie Burns in a six-round affair two weeks hence.

To Race for World's Championship.

Edinburgh, Feb. 2.—Much interest is manifested in the three-cornered race for the world's championship between Longhorn, Kolshimmon and Holmar, which is to be run tomorrow over the Powdermill course. The race is to be a fifteen-mile event, the winner to receive the stakes amounting to $125 a side and a gold medal emblematic of the world's championship.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Editor, Gazette:—

We are informed in your issue of January 31st, on page 5, that the tax commission assessors had made their departure and "took with them" a copy of the stenographic testimony taken by the Board of Review, which copy of testimony amounted to 570 large typewritten pages. By what authority have they taken that testimony which belongs to the city of Janesville, from the records?

This is in keeping with the whole scheme of the law creating tax commission assessors and Boards of Review, the officers to be filled by men who are non-residents of the city of Janesville. It is in line with the very persistent tendency in this state to remove governmental matters from the people to the capital where the next step will be to remove them from that city to the National Capital so that those running the affairs of the people would be less disturbed by complaints and less annoyed by protests against the usurpation of the fundamental rights of the people. Governmental matters in this state are becoming very rapidly bureaucratized.

We are rapidly approaching the Russian system where agents of the government are sent out to the provinces to execute the laws and compel obedience to the will of the government. In the very nature of things men from other parts of the state do not know the value of real estate and personal property in Janesville, as well as men residing here, and very few assessed the boys who made the reassessments here under tax commissioners' directions, of knowing very much about any kind of value except the value of a salary.

I do not find in the statute any authority for taking the testimony away from Janesville, which was taken here before the Board of Review, and I for one protest against locating all functions of government, or the devices and instruments for carrying it on, at Madison.

England Adopts French System.
The French gardening methods by which an acre of ground is made to yield $2,433 to $2,920 per annum by the forcing hot bed process has been introduced in England. Vegetables are produced all the year and are forced by a steady temperature of 80 degrees.

Eastern Vanity.
In addition to treachery and a certain innate love of cruelty, the oriental nature, as present in the ruling classes, is apt to be superabundantly endowed with a sense of its own importance, as is manifested in the ornate, elaborate and high-sounding titles assumed by eastern potentates.

TO PROSPECTIVE CANDIDATES.

The coming primary election is likely to put in the field a large number of candidates, as any man has a right to aspire to the office of either mayor or commissioner, who feels so inclined. It will be necessary for these men to get before the people, and for their information and convenience the Gazette publishes the following brief form of announcement which occupies about one inch of space. The charge for inserting this notice is 25 cents each issue, cash with order. No account will be opened with candidates.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for.....at the coming primary election, and solicit the support of the voters.

(Signed).....

The Gazette has no names to suggest, and will support no man for office before the primary election.

AN EARLY SPRING.

In the state of Chihuahua, in the republic of Mexico, belongs the honor of showing the world the first signs of spring in a full-blown revolution. The news that the soldiers at Juarez, just across the border from El Paso, have revolted and are doing all sorts of things to the persons loyal to the government at Mexico City, does not come as a surprise. The revolution of last year is still simmering and while the revolutionists were victorious and placed their choice for president in the Mexican White House, still there are left a few disgruntled insurgents who want a revolution, whether right or wrong. General Reyes, one of the old-time military leaders, was recently captured and put in prison. In the old days he would have been shot, but he was only put in prison by the present rulers of Mexico and in consequence he has had ample opportunity to start more trouble while supposed to be locked safely in a cell for his former misdeeds. Perhaps are often prone to think of Mexico as a tropical country when, if the truth be known, the northern portion, among the mountains, is really very cold, and sometimes snow is found in large quantities. However the fact that the revolution has really begun leads the maker of weather maps to become convinced that spring has reached Mexico a trifle in advance of the rest of the country. It is a matter of pride with the states of northern Mexico to see which can show the first signs of spring, and Chihuahua has evidently taken the premium this year and is entitled to the blue ribbon. Statistics are not at hand showing whether the spring, and Chihuahua has evidently taken the premium this year and is entitled to the blue ribbon. Statistics are not at hand showing whether the spring, and Chihuahua has evidently taken the premium this year and is entitled to the blue ribbon.

farmers along the Rio Grande are making their plans to grow crops during the coming summer for exclusive use of the revolutionists with a view of quick sales at large profits, as the average Mexican farmer will either be too busy fighting or planning to fight to grow any crops for himself. So spring has come to Mexico and the power of the revolutionists of 1911, now the government, is tottering before the chirp of the revolutionary robin of 1912.

THE DARROW INCIDENT.

There is particular significance in the indictment of Clarence Darrow by the Los Angeles grand jury. Aside from the personal aspect of the case, Darrow's indictment will be watched with interest the country over and the final outcome of the trial which must follow, will have its effect upon the annals of the legal world. Darrow is representative of organized labor. The mere question of his being guilty of the charge of jury-bribery shows some of the difficulties that district attorneys and attorney generals have to undergo in order to bring about the conviction of criminals in this day and age. Jury-fixing, prior to what should be a fair and impartial trial, is an inhuman form of betrayal of justice, even if done by an attorney in behalf of his client's interests. Mr. Darrow says that he is not guilty of the charge brought; that he can clear himself of any blame in the matter, and meanwhile the public await the result of the jury which will hear the case. President Taft has said of a lawyer's duties to his clients on many public occasions that "One of the great needs of the American bar today is the conviction on the part of every lawyer that the allegiance which he owes to the court and to the government is higher than that which he owes to his client, and that there is a line beyond which he should not go in selecting the means and method of protecting his client's interest." Most of the lawyers of today who court similar indictment from radicals come under the specifications of Mr. Roosevelt, speaking at Harvard commencement in 1905, when he told of "unfathomable and most highly remunerated leaders of the bar in every center of wealth who make it their special task to work out bold and ingenious schemes by which their very wealthy clients, individual or corporate, can evade the laws which are made to regulate, in the interest of the public, the use of great wealth." Mr. Darrow is charged with practically the same perversion of justice in behalf of a labor monopoly.

NOT SHIRT SLEEVE DIPLOMACY.

Under the caption, "Shirt-Sleeve Diplomacy," the Wall Street Journal takes up the subject of the Persian incident and Mr. Shuster's retirement from the management of its fiscal affairs.

"It is impossible not to feel sympathy for Mr. Shuster, now no longer treasurer of Persia, and for the unhappy country he has left. He was entirely sincere; and he has demonstrated in other places his efficiency as a financial administrator. He had no formal diplomatic standing; he was a paid servant of the country. It is true that the president of the United States recommended him, but no other backing was intended or implied."

Mr. Shuster, in a speech made in London, stated with simplicity and force the Persian case against Russia, and implied, with the apparent approval of his hosts, that the British government had sided with the stronger power. His hosts were the Radical and Labor members of Parliament, who have small use for imperialism or the intricacies of diplomacy. He was cordially applauded, as he doubtless deserved to be. The British receive criticism better than almost any race in the world, even when they are being told their business by some one more serious than competent, as for instance when Mr. Roosevelt told Lord Cromer and a select company of experienced pro-consuls how to govern Egypt.

"In an entirely temperate and sympathetic article the London Times suggests that Mr. Shuster might have met with more success if he had possessed a little more tact. Taking the facts as Mr. Shuster states them, the Times says:

"Do they not rather, upon his own showing, lend color to the suggestion that he is wanting not merely in finesse, in which he argues he was not deficient, but also in the broad common sense which enables a good business man to grasp the essential facts of a political situation?"

"The point is well taken. Mr. Shuster's position was not merely administrative. It called for all the qualities essential to a good diplomat, and the first, last and greatest of those qualities is the ability to keep out of the line-light. Probably the best diplomat this country ever produced was the late John Hay; and no man could achieve more without attracting notoriety than he did. A diplomat who becomes the hero of the newspapers may be all sorts of admirable things—but he has ceased to be a diplomat. The serious business of the world is conducted quietly. Mr. Shuster has probably learned by now that you cannot hunt moose with a brass band."

"This will hardly be regarded as a popular view; but the financial interests of the world are deeply responsible for its peace and for the way in which that peace is assured. It is to be regretted that Mr. Shuster did not complete his work of re-organizing the Persian treasury; and he would be a poor American who did not sympathize with the Persian desire for independence and self-government. Mr. Shuster had hard luck and anything but a square deal. Let us make much of our distinguished citizen when he returns."

"But is it not just possible that he might have achieved more if he had gone about it in a quieter fashion?"

If that ground hog theory amounts to anything we are in for six weeks more of winter. Let us hope, however, that as far as Janesville is concerned Mr. Ground Hog was snipped up by one of these wolves hanging around the city waiting to be shot, before he had time to even look for his shadow.

WISCONSIN IS PLANNING TO SEND A

solid state delegation to the Chicago convention of republicans headed by the governor, with congressmen and ex-state officials on it, to vote for the state's senior senator for the job of president. Well, perhaps Wisconsin will stand alone, and perhaps not.

So Mr. Taft's private secretary

gives out the statement that his superior will be re-nominated at the next republican convention and re-elected later in the year. Cheering news, but thus far Col. Roosevelt has not said anything that sounds like such a statement.

It looks now as though there would be no dearth of candidates for the jobs of mayor and commissioners at the coming spring primary. If all our who talk of it this ticket will contain enough names to suit even the most fastidious.

Mr. Underwood has found that the United States senate does not really believe in all his ideas as regards tariff and that it is a foolman worthy of his steel.

Abdication comes hard to the Manch

chu family of China as they do not come of an abdicating family. They prefer to fight it out and trust to their ancient Gods to win.

Wrong Time, Perhaps.

Madison Democrat—Still, it might not have been the best time in the world to hold an election pertaining to city government just when property owners were busy assembling the means for paying their taxes. They were in no mood to think favorably of an innovation, costly as current experience might be.

The Seat of Learning.

Rockford Register-Gazette—Madison, Wis., which has heretofore been regarded by many of our very best reformers as the seat of intellectualism, yesterday defeated the proposition to adopt the commission form of government by over 500 majority.

Up to Janesville.

Beloit Free Press—Madison and Grand Rapids have turned down commission form of government, but Janesville will give us all a shining or horrible example of its benefits or injuries.

Hardly Expected.

Oaklath Northwestern—And after all the fervid, fervent exhortation of the Madison Journal in favor of commission government, we little thought the voters of the Capital city would turn this proposition down.

Where to Inquire.

Chicago Inter Ocean—Any one desirous of getting "inside information" concerning Candidate La Follette is respectfully advised to inquire of the "Teddy Bear."

Under Suspicion.

Milwaukee Sentinel—It behooves Col. Watterton to pause and reflect before placing dynamite under any more presidential scheme. William J. Burnell get him if he don't watch out.

Of Course.

When our friends tell us we are too sensible to be interested we know they are sincere.—Smart Set.

ON SPUR OF THE MOMENT

THE PLAY

N A T E S O F

YESTERDAY.

Oh, yesterday, the playmates

of yesterday,

The fellows we knew in school?

Oh, what has become of the studious ones,

And where, oh where, is the fool?

Oh, what has become of the orator?

Whose passion was to rectify?

And the bashful kid who could speak

no place

Unless he succumbed to fright?

Oh, what has become of the model boy,

Who was always the teacher's pet?

And where, oh where, is the tough young nut,

The one we can no longer forget?

The studious one, so we have been told,

Is driving a huck these days;

While the fool owns stock in a bank or two,

And a railroad that always pays.

The orator that we knew so well

Is a clerk in a dry goods store;

While the bashful kid that we knew has been in congress ten years or more.

The model boy is behind the bars

For stealing a neighbor's cow.

And you ask what of the tough young nut?

Oh, he is a preacher now.

PRESS COMMENT.

The Safe Way.

Antioch Journal—With the raising of the rates of the Woodmen one of the last of the large, if not the largest fraternal insurance societies in this country today, has come to the realization that all fraternal insurance societies have to come to; that it costs a fixed amount to carry insurance and that when the rate is lower than the fixed amount the society cannot live. The Woodmen took the proper course. They have raised their rates high enough to make the insurance safe and yet not so high, but what it is cheap insurance.

Demand Increases.

Grant County Herald—The demand for commission form of government in cities has taken on new life in Wisconsin. Janesville and Superior carried the proposition last week. Madison voted upon it yesterday, the result not being known the hour we go to press. Fond du Lac has launched the proposition at a mass meeting, held within the past few days and Platteville, Morrell, La Crosse and Beloit are preparing for a move in the same direction. Eau Claire and Oshkosh voted some time ago to abolish the old commission plan and take up the new commission form. The Janesville result is a reversal of the vote taken a year or two ago.

Wrong Time, Perhaps.

Madison Democrat—Still, it might not have been the best time in the world to hold an election pertaining to city government just when property owners were busy assembling the means for paying their taxes. They were in no mood to think favorably of an innovation, costly as current experience might be.

WIFE CALLS POLICE; HUBBY BREAKS PHONE

Otto Strampe Objects to Their Invitation to Home—Threatened to Use Gun—Struggles With Officers.

Because he objected to police interference in his family affairs, Otto Strampe, a Highland avenue resident, last night tore the phone off the wall as his wife was about to call for protection from his abuse, and threatened to shoot the first officer that set foot in the house.

The operator at Central who received the call from the Strampe home became frightened when she found that communication with the place was cut off, and surmising that some terrible crime might have taken place, suggested to the police that they go out and make investigation.

Chief of Police Appleby and Officer Peter Champion responded with the patrol wagon. The chief was the first to set foot inside the house and found Strampe had crowded his wife into a corner. He at once grabbed his man, but Strampe, who is a strong man of less than thirty-five years of age, was determined to put up a fight and worst of the officer if possible. Both grappled, but Officer Champion who had waited outside in the patrol wagon, heard the noise of battle and entering the house, with a running blow, brought Strampe into submission.

This morning Chief Appleby concluded himself that he had a whole skin, for he learned that Strampe had a loaded shot-gun in the room and had threatened to shoot the first officer that came to get him.

Strampe pled guilty to intoxication this morning and was sentenced to ten days in the county jail and three dollars fine, or five additional days. He has been having trouble with his wife for some time, and although locked up before, had not been brought into court. Whiskey is said to be the cause of his misconduct and while under its influence he has a mania for destroying household furniture and furnishings.

THE INVESTIGATIONS OF FOREIGN MISSIONS

Pastor Russell, Gen. W. P. Hall and Others Reach Singapore.

In His Public Address Pastor Russell
Declares, in the Words of St. Paul,
"Of a Truth I Perceive That God Is No respecter of Persons"—Various Dilemmas Discussed.

Singapore, January 28.—Pastor Russell's text for today was, "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons, but in every nation he that feareth him and worketh righteousness is accepted of him." (Acts x, 34, 35.) A brief report of his excellent address follows:—

Never before have I seen so cosmopolitan a city as Singapore. The savanahs of Chinese, Malay, Hindoo, Javanese, Siamese, Singalese, Burmese, Afghans, Madrass, Tamils and many other nationalities are here interspersed by representatives of practically every nation in the world. The sight of these mingled peoples, only a few of whom know of worship, or in any wise acknowledge "the Only True God, and Jesus Christ whom I have sent," stirs my heart, and my head as well.

We recognize the clear statements of the Apostle that "Without faith it is impossible to please God (Hebrews xi, 6); and "How shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard?" (Romans x, 14) and also the commission: "This Gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness."

Triled and Found Wanting.

A considerable class of very good people by their creeds tell us that if God had foreordained the heathen to salvation he would have seen to it that the Gospel was preached to them; and that their not hearing the Gospel signifies that God "passed them by" as "non-elect," that the "elect" are to be found only amongst those who have been favored of God and who accept that favor and are "sanctified."

Another class of people by their creeds, which no longer truly represent them, tell us that they believe, as above, only that they had another condition, namely, that "the elect" in order to be of "the elect," must be brought to a knowledge of water baptism—complete immersion—and must obey this teaching.

Another theory held denies that there is "election" and denies that any quantity of water is necessary, although it does recommend a little. (This theory declares God's love for the heathen, but says that he made faith in Jesus' sacrificial death a condition of salvation and that the responsibility for the heathen's not knowing, and consequently their going to eternal torment, rests with Christians themselves. They say that God did his part in providing the Savior, and that the carrying of this knowledge is wholly dependent upon Christians. One would think that with this view few Christians would be able to sleep a single night.)

Some dear people, holding the views last mentioned, have started a "Men and Religion Forward Movement." They propose to use about two million dollars in starting the movement and thereby to collect a fund of thirty million dollars (six million pounds). Dear people! How I love them for their zeal, even though it be as the Apostle said, "not according to knowledge." (Romans x, 2.) If they could stand in Singapore's streets and journey with us a little the eyes of their understanding would be opened. They would begin to figure out that the sum they expect to spend in converting the world would be little over half a penny per soul! The United States Government statistics show that a century ago the numbers of heathen were six hundred millions and that today the number is double.

A Better Hope Found.

Some, repudiating the creeds of the past as no longer tenable, fault the Bible with being the basis for these creeds and abandon it with the creeds.

Let us, on the contrary, declare that the difficulty with the creeds of the past has been that they divided up the Word of God amongst them, and that each creed has a certain amount of gold as well as a large accumulation of dross. It would be too serious an undertaking for Justice to put all the creeds into a crucible and separate the gold from the dross. Let us take the easier, the simpler method to which all Christian people should be willing to concede, namely: to wholly cast aside our creeds and go back to the Word of God—to the Bible—to the utterances of Jesus, the Apostles and Prophets.

St. Paul's declaration is that the Word of God is sufficient that the man of God may be fully furnished. (1 Timothy iii, 17.) His further suggestion is that we "rightly divide the Word of Truth," and that "it is able to make us wise unto salvation." Let us follow this course and allow God's Word to be its own interpreter—allow one passage to throw light upon another; and thus let us reject none of the Divine testimony, but, bringing the whole together, and therein the Wisdom of God, the Justice of God, the Love of God, the Power of God unto salvation, to every one that believeth.

Why?

For some reason a girl always thinks every fellow who proposes to her is a hero.

The Wise Men Tell by the Star.
Matt. xlii-12.

Golden Text—Look unto me and be ye saved all the ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is none else.—Isa. xlv, 22.

(1.) Verse 1—Where was Bethlehem, the birthplace of Jesus?

(2.) Where was the home of the parents of Jesus, and what had brought them to Bethlehem?

(3.) Who were the wise men that came seeking to see Jesus?

(4.) Verse 2—What evidence is there, if any, that God has revealed himself to other peoples besides the Israelites?

(5.) Give your opinion of the "star" which the wise men saw. (a) Was it created on purpose, or did God cause them to associate a new star, to them, with the birth of Jesus? (b) Was the star objective or subjective?

(6.) Were the wise men right in their opinion that Jesus was "born King of the Jews"? Why?

(7.) Verse 3—What is the evidence for or against the idea that God meant Jesus to be the earthly King of the Jews, as the wise men seemed to think and as Herod feared?

(8.) Why should Herod and "all Jerusalem" be troubled at the news of the birth of a Jewish King?

(9.) Verses 4-6—What prophet is here referred to, and where did these priests and scribes quote from?

(10.) Did the prophet they quoted from and did these scribes and priests think that the expected Christ was to be an earthly King? Why?

(11.) Verse 7—What is it which makes diligent study of a worthy subject noble or ignoble?

(12.) Verse 8—How would you describe a man with a motive of Herod when he sent these wise men off to find Jesus?

(13.) What reason is there, if any, to believe that some attend Church today, pretending they are seeking Jesus, with as ignoble motives as Herod had?

(14.) Verse 9—If a man today would see Jesus what "star" or sign does he need to follow?

(15.) Does God send a "star" or its equivalent pointing to Jesus to every man or to only a few? Give your reasons.

(16.) Verse 10—Mention some things which always produce joy and then describe that which produces the greatest joy to mortals known.

(17.) Verse 11—What is the ground for belief that those who seek Jesus will surely find him? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(18.) What are the emotions stirred, the motives formed and the deeds done by all who really seek and find Jesus?

(19.) Verse 12—Is there any liability that those who live in the presence of Jesus will ever be duped into betraying him?

Lesson for Sunday, Feb. 11, 1912.
The Holy Jesus in the Temple. Luke ii:40-52.

The Discoverer of "Waverley."

One of the very first persons to identify Scott as the author of "Waverley" was Jeffrey. The novel, which appeared in July, 1814, was reviewed in the Edinburgh Review of the following November, No. 47, and the concluding sentences of the notice are worth recalling:

"There has been much speculation at least in this quarter of the island about the author of this singular performance, and certainly it is not easy to conjecture why it is still anonymous. Judging by internal evidence, to which alone we pretend to have access, we should not scruple to ascribe it to the highest of those authors to whom it has been assigned by the anxious conjectures of the public, and this at least we will venture to say—that if it be indeed the work of an author hitherto unknown Mr. Scott would do well to look to his laurels and to rouse himself for a sturdier competition than any he has yet had to encounter."—Scotsman.

Evolution of a Word.

Greeks call a city "polis." The fundamental, or root, of the word was "pol." The Aryan stock from which Greek and Latin descended had a way of emphasizing an idea by reduplicating—that is, by repeating the root syllable. So probably after the separation of the Greek from his Aryan birthplace the old parent stock reduplicated "pol" and made "popoli" of it, by which was meant one inhabitant of the city. That reduplicated word appears in Latin as "populus," meaning now all the citizens of a "polis." The Latin went out from the Aryan hive long after the Greeks. They carried "populus" with them, but left "polis" behind. The English descendant of the Aryan stock says "people" now instead of "populus," but almost keeps the original in "population." It keeps "polis" also in the word "politics," which is easily seen by its etymology to be "the science of being a citizen."—Chicago News.

Search for Beauty is Old.

Women even in the time of Papyrus took care of their complexions, as he wrote down in his diary the fact that his wife and Jane went down to Woolwich to get the May dew, with which to wash their faces, and later tells of her rising at three o'clock in the morning to go forth for May dew while he lay troubled lest harm come to her at that early hour.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

A FALSE PHILOSOPHY.

"There's nothing in it."
Which was my friend's way of expressing the result of his inventory of human life and the values supposed to reside in human living.

I knew his manner of life. He was inordinately selfish. From boyhood he had sought only his own personal pleasure. His education, business, habits—given his marriage—had been considered entirely from the standpoint of his own personal good.

He was "successful." His ambitions had been largely realized. But he was not happy. He was discontented and pessimistic. Almost angrily, he demanded:

"What are we here for, anyway?"

I said to him that I had found life very good and the values of a satisfying character. I believed that one should live—

For the future in the distance, for the good that I can do.

To be sure, I had not lived up to my ideal, but it was my firm belief that mortals are shut up to the proposition that in order to be happy they must plan to make others happy. Whereupon he said:

"I don't believe that rot."

I am sure he did not believe it. It was totally contrary to his entire philosophy. He said:

"Look about you. Every fellow is for himself, and the devil takes the hindmost. The only Golden Rule I believe in is the David Harum rule to 'do the other fellow first.' The man who does otherwise will get left."

There are a lot of people who proceed on that philosophy.

But it does not work!

Those who live the David Harum philosophy—and David didn't—somehow miss the way. Though "successful," they are weary and disgusted with life.

The philosophy is wrong.

Put the other system—the plan of unselfishness—on the very lowest plane, the plane of success, and—it works!

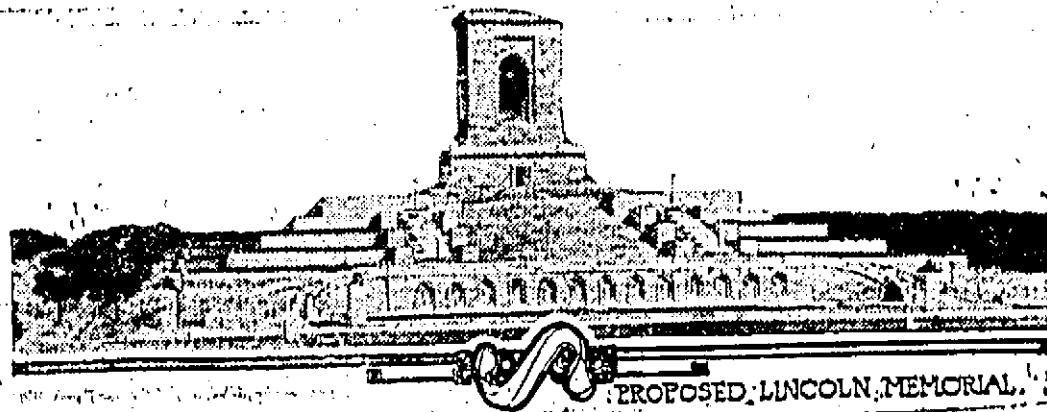

Is mere personal happiness your highest desire?

If so you are doomed to disappointment, disillusion. The time will come when you will find nothing in life that is worth while.

Mortals are built that way.

Best Way to Tie Shoe Laces.

A way to keep shoe laces tied is to make a bow in the ordinary way, then insert a buttonhook underneath the center of the bow and draw one loop and one end through (underneath), thus turning the bow practically upside down. Or draw one loop through the other and pull the "answering" end, so that the loops are knotted.

HEAVY YIELD NOTED IN CROPS RECEIVED

Surprising Thing to Dealers is Unusual Yield of New Crop, 1500 to 1800 Pounds Being Frequent.

The receiving of the tobacco crop contracted for some months ago is still the principal business of the local markets, according to the Editors of the Tobacco Reporter. There is some improvement noticeable in the condition of the tobacco as it comes to the warehouses, though the most surprising thing yet is the unusual yield, ranging from 1500 to 1800 pounds and more per acre. Any crop of Wisconsin leaf that puts up over four cases to the acre is an exception.

The P. Lorillard Company received about 100,000 pounds from growers in this section this week, the bulk of which is stored here for stemming purposes. Warehouse work is proceeding as rapidly as possible with a full complement of help at most of the packing plants.

CATTLE AND HOGS HAVE SLOW MARKET

Both Cattle and Hogs Fall to Recover From Yesterday's Slump.—Sheep in Better Demand.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Feb. 2.—The cattle and hog markets were slow this morning and neither showed much tendency to recover from the slump which was witnessed yesterday. Cattle receipts were only 2,000, but prices were lower. Hogs were marked up five cents, but were in poor demand.

Sheep were favored with a better market and the demand was steady to strong. Receipts were estimated at 8,000. Quotations are given as follows:

COLD WEATHER IS HARD ON GROCERS

Few Shoppers Down Town Today.—Oranges, Grapefruit and Apples Are in Good Condition.

Trade is pretty slow today on account of the cold weather and very few people are doing their shopping except over the telephone. No change appears in the prices quoted and nothing new has come on the local market today. Plenty of nice eating and cooking apples are to be had at most of the stores and a fine quality is offered. The oranges and grapefruit are still running in excellent condition and they are gradually improving in quality. The naval oranges are becoming sweeter and are losing the tang which is usually present during the first part of the season. Today's prices are as follows:

Vegetables.
Carrots—2c lb.
Parsnips—2c lb.
Potatoes—$1.20 bu.
Cauliflower—20c.
Green Peppers—5c each.
Squash—15c@20c.

A Harmless Cough Cure

Would you give morphine or chloroform to your baby or take it yourself? Of course not. Yet most potent cough cures contain one or both. They stop cough in a minute, which is dangerous. A cough should be cured internally by healing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, throwing it out, which is done by coughing. Badger Cough Balm does not contain morphine or chloroform. It is made by perspiration from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. It's safe for children or old people. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Badger Cough Balm is made by Mr. Pienitz, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts.

Whistles for the Deaf.
Every deaf person should carry a whistle. If the family make it an invariable rule for some one to appear in answer to the whistle the one afflicted with deafness will be pleased with the result. It will prevent useless calling and save many steps. It has been tried and found most satisfactory.

Humor and Health.
There is nothing like a sense of humor to keep one in good health, says a medical contemporary, but it would be well had we been told at the same time how this excellent gift is to be acquired. Could anything be more tantalizing than to know how to cure oneself and yet be unable to grasp at the means?—Lady's Pictorial.

Originally Color Bearers.
Ensign is a word formed on the idea of the display of insignia, badge or device and was formerly much used where we now employ the word colors. The company officers in a regiment who were, until late years, termed ensigns were, at a still earlier period, more correctly termed "ensign bearers."

Nearly Out of Cheese.
A grocery salesman entering a store found the place in charge of the delivery boy. Upon being asked where the proprietor was, the boy replied: "I am the whole cheese here." The traveling man departed, leaving a note for the proprietor, which the boy promptly opened. "Permit me to suggest," he read, "that you are nearly out of cheese."—Success.

Whistles for the Deaf.
Every deaf person should carry a whistle. If the family make it an invariable rule for some one to appear in answer to the whistle the one afflicted with deafness will be pleased with the result. It will prevent useless calling and save many steps. It has been tried and found most satisfactory.

Humor and Health.
There is nothing like a sense of humor to keep one in good health, says a medical contemporary, but it would be well had we been told at the same time how this excellent gift is to be acquired. Could anything be more tantalizing than to know how to cure oneself and yet be unable to grasp at the means?—Lady's Pictorial.

Originally Color Bearers.
Ensign is a word formed on the idea of the display of insignia, badge or device and was formerly much used where we now employ the word colors. The company officers in a regiment who were, until late years, termed ensigns were, at a still earlier period, more correctly termed "ensign bearers."

Quaker Slang.
A visitor to Philadelphia, unfamiliar with the garb of the Society of Friends, was much interested in two denims and placed Quakeresses who took seats directly behind her in the Broad street station. After a few minutes' silence she was somewhat startled to hear a gentle voice inquire: "Sister Kate, will thee go to the counter and have a milk punch on me?"—Lippincott's.

Nearly Out of Cheese.
A grocery salesman entering a store found the place in charge of the delivery boy. Upon being asked where the proprietor was, the boy replied: "I am the whole cheese here." The traveling man departed, leaving a note for the proprietor, which the boy promptly opened. "Permit me to suggest," he read, "that you are nearly out of cheese."—Success.

WILL MAKE PHOENIX AN ATTRACTIVE BOOK

High School Junior Class are Working on Bi-Annual Publication—Plan Many Features.

Interest among the students of the local high school is now deeply centered around Junior class of the school since the time for the publication of the "Phoenix" the book published by the Junior class every other year, is drawing near. This custom of editing a school book or paper was first originated by the Rusk Lyceum, several years ago. After a time this literary society gave the right to publish the book, to the Junior class and so from then on for a number of years it has been gotten out by the Juniors.

This year the class of "1913" are putting forth their best efforts and are endeavoring to make their publication an improvement over all former ones, a "Phoenix" which the coming classes will set up as a standard and will attempt to pattern after. Several improvements have been made in the make-up of the book. In the first place the volume will be larger, since it will contain at least a hundred and seventy-five pages while the Phoenix, which was published in 1910 contained only a hundred and twelve. More over it will be better bound, have a better cover, and will contain many more cuts than ever before. Among the cuts will be pictures of the Faculty, of the worthy Seniors who are to graduate, pictures of the various literary societies, of the various athletic teams and other representatives of the school, groups of the different classes officers, and also one of the Phoenix Board. Besides these there will be a much larger number of sketches and drawings than ever before. Besides all these improvements the board have decided to enlarge the literary department making it just twice its former size.

It is not the aim of the class to have the book represent the work of the Junior class alone but instead to have it represent the entire high school. In order to secure this and to stimulate interest among the students and to secure the best work which the students are capable of producing, the Juniors have offered prizes. For the best story written by any member of the school they offer as a first prize, a Parker fountain pen, and as a second prize, a copy of the "Phoenix." For the best poem written by a Junior or Senior they will give a copy of the "Phoenix," and for the best poem from any member of the two lower classes they will also give a copy of the "Phoenix." In the art department, a Parker pen is offered for the best drawing handed in by one of the upper classes and a "Phoenix" for the best drawing presented by one of the lower classes. The time limit for this contest is March first. Already a large number have entered the contest and it is expected that many more will. Out of all this material which will be handed in, they hope to secure some real good work and as they have the privilege of using it, they will greatly improve the book. If nothing happens the board planned to have the book off the press by the last of April or the first of May.

Although the expenses of this book are heavy nevertheless the ready response of the business men to requests for advertisements has made the financial side secure. This book is edited by a board composed of members of the Junior class together with a few from each of the other three classes. The members of this board are as follows: Editor, Miss Edith Boyer; Editor-in-Chief, Harold Moore; Assistant Editor, Margaretta Boyer; Business Manager, Leslie Bailey; Advertising Manager, Benjamin Kublow; Class Editor, Tracy Allen; Athletic Editor, Roy Editor; Art Editor, Evelyn Kallve; Book Editor, Rusk Lyceum Editor, Alva Kretz; Philanthropy Editor, Vesta Bradley; Forum Editor, Fred Cummings; Laureate Editor, Alta Mifflin; Chat Editor, Lucille Hyde. The art staff is composed of Evelyn Kallve, chairman, and Leslie Bailey, Oliver Reynolds, Harold Moore. The representatives of the Seniors are Sara Garbutt and Don Korst, of the Juniors, Marjorie Merrill and Ralph Souham of the Sophomores, Margaret Jeffries and Victor Hemming, and of the Freshman, Ruth Souham and Harry Puch.

Value of Cheerfulness.

Cheerfulness is a thing to be more profoundly grateful for than all that genius ever inspired or talent accomplished. Next best to spontaneous cheerfulness is deliberate, intended and persistent cheerfulness which we can create, cultivate and so foster and cherish that after a few years the world will never suspect that it was not a hereditary gift.—Helen Hunt Jackson.

Why She Chose the Gown.

A woman in Cherryvale, Kan., was allowed her choice between a new parlor rug and a summer gown. The Journal says that after three sleepless nights she decided on the dress. She argued: "I can darken the parlor and the rug will look all right in subdued light, and besides, hundreds of folks will see the dress who would never see the rug."

JUNIOR PROMENADE TO BE GALA EVENT

Janesville Young People will be Guests at Big University Party at Madison, Feb. 9.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Feb. 2.—Janesville will be represented by four young men and women at the annual Junior promenade of the University of Wisconsin to be held at the University armory, Friday, Feb. 9. This is the big social event of the university year and over 500 guests will attend the festivities.

Miss Emma Shoemaker and Vincent W. Koch, will be members of the Junior party given by the Sigma Nu fraternity and will be in the fraternity box at the prom. Miss Hazel Howe and Frank D. Hayes will represent Janesville in the Delta Upsilon house party, and will take part in the festivities arranged by that fraternity.

About 240 couples will attend the prom and special trains will be run from Chicago and Milwaukee to accommodate the prom guests, more than half of whom come from out-of-town.

The dance program, which will consist of 24 numbers will be played by John Hand's Chicago orchestra of 21 pieces, with Red Cloud, the Indian saxophone artist as soloist. Among the pieces to be played will be the prize prom waltz, composed by John M. Brigham of Dexter, Maine, a graduate student in the university who won the $25 prize in competition with 21 other student composers.

The decorations will transform the armory into the garden of a country place, the boxes being in the form of pergolas covered with vines and the dance floor being a sloping lawn set with palms.

STOCK COMPANY PLEASES ANOTHER LARGE AUDIENCE.

Hickman-Dessay Production at Myers Theatre Last Evening Proved to be Exciting Melodrama.

Another large audience greeted the Hickman-Dessay company at their fourth production at the Myers Theatre last evening. The play, "The Burglar and the Lady," was an exciting melodrama and was admirably adapted to the capabilities of the members of the company. Mr. Dessay very cleverly portrayed the role of the burglar and Miss Duff of the Lady. Thrilling incidents combined with laugh-provoking situations made the action interesting throughout.

From the Storehouse of the Eyes.

Eyes are held as lions, roving, running, leaping here and there, far and near. They speak all languages; they wait for no introduction; they are no Englishmen; ask no leave of age or rank; they respect neither poverty nor riches, neither learning nor power, nor virtue, nor sex, but intrude, and come again, and go through and through you in a moment of time. What inundation of life and thought is discharged from one soul into another through them!—Emerson: "Conduct of Life."

NOT SALTS, OIL OR PILLS BUT CASCARETS

No odds how sick your stomach; how hard your head aches or how bilious—Cascarets make you feel great.

You men and women who somehow can't get feeling right—who have an almost daily headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—to good—never grip or sicken.

Sleeping during the sermon in a poor compliment to the preacher, but it is not often that the man in the pulpit turns the occasion to such effective use as did John Wesley. The apostle of Methodism was preaching, while many of his hearers slept. Suddenly he started them by a loud cry of "Fire! Fire!" There was a momentary panic among the congregation, and a man cried out, "Where, sir? Where?" "In hell," the preacher replied, "for those who sleep under the preaching of the Word."

Finds Cure for Epilepsy After Years of Suffering

"My daughter was afflicted with epileptic fits for three years, the attacks coming every few weeks. We employed several doctors but they did her no good. About a year ago we heard of Dr. Miles' Nervine, and it certainly has proved a blessing to our little girl. She is now apparently cured and is enjoying the best of health. Over a year since she has had a fit. We cannot speak too highly of Dr. Miles' Nervine."

The PHANTOM OF THE OPERA

THE MYSTERY OF THE YELLOW RACE and THE PERFUME OF THE LADY IN BLACK

It trembled as he rang at a little flat in the Rue Notre-Dame-de-Victoire. The door was opened by the maid when he had seen coming out of Christine's dressing-room one evening. He asked if he could speak to Mme. Valerius. He was told that she was ill in bed and was not receiving visitors.

"Take in my card, please," he said. The maid soon returned and showed him into a small and scantily furnished drawing-room, in which portraits of Professor Valerius and old Raoul hung on opposite walls.

"Madame begs monsieur to welcome to excuse her," said the servant. "She can only see him in her bedroom, because she can no longer stand on her poor legs."

Five minutes later, Raoul was ushered into an ill-lit room where he at once recognized the good, kind face of Christine's benefactress. In the semi-darkness of an alcove, Mamma Valerius' hair was now quite white, but her eyes had grown no older; never, on the contrary, had their expression been so bright, so pure, so child-like.

"M. de Chagny!" she cried gaily, putting out both her hands to the visitor. "Ah, it's heaven that sends you here! . . . We can talk of her."

"This last sentence sounded very gloomily in the young man's ears. He at once asked:

"Madame . . . where is Christine?"

And the old lady replied calmly: "She is with her good genius!"

"What good genius?" exclaimed poor Raoul.

"Why, the Angel of Music!"

The viscount dropped into a chair. Really? Christine was with the Angel of Music? And there lay Mamma Valerius in bed, smiling to him and putting her finger to her lips, to warn him to be silent? And she added:

"You must not tell anybody!"

"You can rely on me," said Raoul. He hardly knew what he was saying, for his ideas about Christine, already greatly confused, were becoming more and more entangled; and it seemed as if everything was beginning to turn around him, around the room, around that extraordinary good lady with the white hair and forgotten eyes.

"I know! I know I can!" she said, with a happy laugh. "But why don't you come near me, as you used to do when you were a little boy? Give me your hands, as when you brought me Musteroil!"

"I know! I know I can!" she said, with a happy laugh. "But why don't you come near me, as you used to do when you were a little boy? Give me your hands, as when you brought me Musteroil!"

"Dead? I thought Christine had told you all that, when she met you at Perros, where she went with her good genius."

"Oh, she went to Perros with her good genius, did she?"

"That is to say, he arranged to meet her down there, in Perros churchyard, at Dana's grave. He promised to play her 'The Resurrection of Lazarus' on her father's violin!"

Raoul de Chagny rose and, with a very authoritative air, pronounced these peremptory words:

"Madame, you will have the goodness to tell me where that genius lives."

The old lady did not seem surprised at this indiscreet command. She raised her eyes and said:

"In heaven!"

Such simplicity baffled him. He did not know what to say in the presence of this candid and perfect faith in a genius who came down nightly from heaven to haunt the dressing-rooms at the opera.

He now realized the possible state of mind of a girl brought up between a superstitious father and a visionary old lady and he shuddered when he thought of the consequences of it all.

"Is Christine still a good girl?" he asked suddenly, in spite of himself.

"I swear it, as I hope to be saved!" exclaimed the old woman, who, this time, seemed to be incensed. "And, if you doubt it, sir, I don't know what you are here for!"

Raoul tore at his gloves. "How long has she known this 'genius'?"

"About three months. . . . Yes, it's quite three months since he began to give her lessons."

The viscount threw up his arms with a gesture of despair. "The genius gives her lessons!"

"And where, pray?"

"Now that she has gone away with him, I can't say; but, up to a fortnight ago, it was in Christine's dressing-room. It would be impossible in this little flat. The whole house would hear them. Whereas, at the opera, at eight o'clock in the morning, there is no one about, do you see?"

"Yes, I see! I see!" cried the viscount. And he hurriedly took leave of Mme. Valerius, who asked herself if the young nobleman was not a little off his head.

He walked home to his brother's house in a pitiful state. He could have struck himself, banged his head against the walls! To think that he had believed in her innocence, in her purity! The Angel of Music! He knew him now! He saw him! It was beyond a doubt some unrepentant tenor, a good-looking Jackanapes, who mouthed and stammered as he sang! He thought himself an absurd and as wretched as could be. Oh, what a miserable, little, insignificant, silly young man was M. de Vicomte de Chagny! thought Raoul furiously. And she, what a bold and damnable creature!

His brother was waiting for him and Raoul fell into his arms, like a child. The count consoled him, without asking for explanations; and Raoul would certainly have long hesitated before telling him the story of the Angel of Music. His brother suggested taking him out to dinner. Overcome as he was with despair, Raoul would probably have refused any invitation that evening, if the count had not, as an inducement, told him that the lady of his thoughts had been seen, the night before, in company of the other sex in the Bois. At first, the viscount refused to believe; but he received such exact details that he ceased protesting. She had been seen, it appeared, driving in a brougham, with the windows down. She seemed to be slowly taking in the moonlight air. There was a glorious moon shining. She was recognized beyond a doubt. As for her companion, only his shadowy outline was distinguished leaning back in the dark. The carriage was going at a walking pace in a lonely drive behind the grandstand at Longchamp.

Raoul dressed in frantic haste, prepared to forget his distress by flinging himself, as people say, into "the vortex of pleasure." Ah, he was a very sorry guest and, leaving his brother early, found himself, by ten o'clock in the evening, in a cab, behind the Longchamp race-course.

It was bitterly cold. The road seemed deserted and very bright under the moonlight. He told the driver to wait for him patiently at the corner of a near turning and, hiding himself as well as he could, stood stamping his feet to keep warm. He had been indulging in this healthy exercise for half an hour or so, when a carriage turned the corner of the road and came quietly in his direction, at a walking pace.

As it approached, he saw that a woman was leaning her head from the window. And, suddenly, the moon shed a pale gleam over her features. "Christine!"

The sacred name of his love had sprung from his heart and his lips. He could not keep it back. . . . He would have given anything to withdraw it, for that name, proclaimed in the stillness of the night, had acted as though it were the preconcerted signal for a furious rush on the part of the whole turn-out, which dashed past him before he could put into execution his plan of leaping at the horses' heads. The carriage window had been closed and the girl's face had disappeared. And the brougham, behind which he was now running, was no more than a black spot on the white road.

He called out again: "Christine!" No reply. And he stopped in the midst of the silence.

With a lack-luster eye, he stared down that cold, desolate road and into the pale, dead night. Nothing was colder than his heart, nothing half so dead; he had loved an angel and now he despised a woman!

Raoul, how that little fairy of the north has trifled with you! Was it really, was it really necessary to have so fresh and young a face, a forehead so shy and always ready to cover itself with the pink blush of modesty in order to pass in the lonely night, in a carriage and pair, accompanied by a mysterious lover? Surely there should be some limit to hypocrisy and lying!

She had passed without answering his cry. . . . And he was thinking of dying; and he was twenty years old!

His valet found him in the morning sitting on his bed. He had not undressed and the servant feared, at the sight of his face, that some disaster had occurred. Raoul snatched his letters from the man's hands. He had recognized Christine's paper and hand-writing. She said:

"Go to the masked ball at the opera on the night after tomorrow. At twelve o'clock, be in the little room behind the chimney-place of the big crash-room. Stand near the door that leads to the Rotunda. Don't mention this appointment to any one on earth. Wear a white domino and be carefully masked. As you love me, do not let yourself be recognized."

"CHRISTINE"

CHAPTER IX.

At the Masked Ball.

The envelope was covered with mud and unstamped. It bore the words, "To be handed to M. de Vicomte Raoul de Chagny," with the address in pencil. It must have been flung out in the hope that a passer-by would pick up the note and deliver it, which was what happened. The note had been picked up on the pavement of the Place de l'Opera.

Kidney Trouble Overcome By the Great Treatment

I have been a sufferer for years with kidney and bladder trouble and took almost everything a drug store contained, without obtaining any benefit.

I suffered so that I became utterly discouraged, as I could not sleep, was always dizzy and had a headache all the time. I saw one of your advertisements and as a last resort, decided to try your Swamp-Root. I am now taking the third bottle and feel like a new woman, sleep well and have no pains whatever.

I strongly advise all sufferers to take the only real cure for kidney and bladder trouble. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root was a God-send to me.

You may publish this letter if you wish so that it may be the means of bringing some poor sufferers back to health.

MRS. MARY O'DONNELL, Lander, Wyo.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this July 14th, 1909.

Borrowed Bridal Finery.

In Norway every parish house has a set of ornaments for the temporary use of the bride, including a showy coronal and grille, so that the poorest women in the land appeared for one day in their life in a costume which they probably thought equal to that of a queen. The museum of national antiquities at Copenhagen contains a number of such sets of bridal decorations, which were at one time used in Denmark.

GROWS HAIR ON BALD HEADS

Bald-headed People May Get a New Chance in Life.

In these days when youth is the moving factor in business, when a man makes his mark at thirty-five and is ready to retire at forty-five, when business houses pension the man we call "middle aged" rather than allow his lacking influence intrude upon the commercial rush, a bald head is almost fatal to any man's hopes. The following must therefore prove interesting to people who are losing their hair or who are bald.

Research is one of the latest and most effective germ killers discovered by science, and in connection with Beta Naphthol, which is both germicidal and antiseptic, a combination is formed which destroys the germ which robs the hair of its nutriment, and also creates a clean and healthy condition of the scalp, which prevents the development of new germs.

Phosphor is a well-known agent for restoring the hair to its natural color, where the loss of color has been due to a disease of the scalp. Yet it is not a coloring matter or dye.

This combination of curatives mixed with alcohol as a stimulant perfects a most effective remedy for hair and scalp troubles.

The famous Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is chiefly composed of Resorcin, Beta Naphthol, and Phosphor. It helps to make the scalp healthy; to nourish the hair, to stimulate the follicles. Where the hair is already bare, it enters the follicles, revitalizes the roots, supplies nourishment, and stimulates a new growth.

We want you to try a few bottles of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, on our personal guarantee that the trial will not cost you a penny if it does not give you absolute satisfaction. That's proof of our faith in this remedy and it should indisputably demonstrate that we know what we are talking about when we say that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will grow hair on bald heads, except of course, where baldness has been of such long duration that the roots of the hair are entirely dead, the follicles closed and grown over, and the scalp is glazed.

Remember we are basing our statements upon what has already been accomplished by the use of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, and we have the right to assume that what it will do for hundreds of others it will do for you. In any event you cannot lose anything by giving it a trial on our liberal guarantee. Remember, you can get Rexall "93" Hair Tonic in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co., 114 West Milwaukee Street, Janesville, Wisconsin.
